

When we run this column we aim to run it continuously — but yesterday it was missing.

The way of that was this: L. B. Tooley who is vacationing at Narrows Lake messaged me Wednesday night through Sam McWhorter of KXAR that the bass were rolling and I had better get up there at the crack of dawn Thursday.

Vic Cobb and I hit the lake at 4:30 a. m. and didn't leave until 6:10 p. m.

Sure enough, the bass were rolling. What I remember about yesterday was the picture of nine boats huddled like moleskins in the main channel like the players in a nautical crap game — each man with his rod cocked for an instant throw wherever the bass next boiled to the surface.

One big school actually ran through our boat and Vic and I could have done better with a baseball bat than we did with our spinning outfits.

My conscience should have bothered me about skipping yesterday's column — but it didn't. Subscribers don't often take an editor's advice, so he can be pardoned if on occasion he offers none.

The Postman's Bite

It says here that the Post Office Department is launching a top-level investigation of what there is about a postman that causes the average dog to write in his diary.

"Today I am a man — today I bit the mail-carrier."

Various remedies are proposed for the ending of this uncivil treatment of the civil service rank and file, but all of them run into heavy weather. One weighty suggestion would outfit the postman with a padded suit. Down South this draws the rejoinder that in June, July and August you can just barely stay inside a shirt let alone a suit whether straight or stuffed.

Another unpleasant character proposes that the postman be treated with chemicals to give him a "B. O." effect where dogs are concerned. On this, all the postmen howled and the dogs were non-committal.

The postmen naturally were full of doubts about the ability of the scientists to turn out an odor that would be offensive to dogs alone.

And here a spokesman for the dogs popped up. The president of the American Kennel Club cautioned the Post Office Department that if dog repellents were made too strong Rover might become really angry — and, instead of taking an exploratory nip, make a real bite.

At this point the Post Office Department experts went off the deep end in a discussion about the first bite being for free anyway.

All of which is very confusing. About the only way to shed really important light on it would be to ask newspaper delivery boys how they approach the problem of meeting a strange dog.

The Star has 28 boys — 23 in Hope and 5 in neighboring towns. I think we will ask each of them to submit a short treatise on the subject of "Dogs I Have Known."

This, I should caution our boys, is strictly an academic matter. We don't want anybody to show up with a collection shortage and an expense account for hamburger.

Group Okays Larger Pension to Veterans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Veterans Affairs Committee today approved a multi-billion-dollar bill for increased payments to veterans.

Kicking over the traces on administration — opposed measures, the House group voted to approve a modified form of the American Legion's big pension bill plus other major provisions for disabled veterans, Spanish War veterans and veterans' widows.

Committee spokesmen, in preliminary estimates, figure the bill would cost $1,400,000,000 the first year and rapidly rise in costs over the next 10 years.

Chairman Olin E. Teague (D- Tex.) said the committee threw the various bills together because the various veterans organizations have failed to give leadership as to what measure should be given priority.

President Eisenhower was reported personally opposed to the Legion measure, which in its original form was estimated by the administration to cost a total of more than 77 billion dollars by the year 2,000.

But he was cautious about predicting committee approval of the bill despite an initial victory for it when the House group, over strenuous opposition from Chairman Olin E. Teague (D-Tex.), voted last Wednesday to take up the measure today.

A coroner's jury ruled that death was caused by accidental drowning.

Ike, Advisers Study Message From Bulganin

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin has told President Eisenhower Russia intends not only to reduce its armed forces by 1,200,000 men but also to cut back armaments and military expenditures correspondingly.

In a 20-minute study yesterday and today, the President's advisers, Bulganin's family for six years, has declared himself an ex-member effective when his present contract expires June 30. The 53-year-old elder said break was amicable. The banjo-playing Godfrey is shown at right. — NEA Telephoto

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — A new 15-page message from Premier Bulganin of Russia to President Eisenhower — believed to concern disarmament problems — was put under intensive study today by Eisenhower and key advisers.

Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin handed it late yesterday to Secretary of State Dulles, who called at the White House sometime later. Presumably translation had proceeded far enough to enable Dulles to give Eisenhower some word of the contents.

Eisenhower and Bulganin have exchanged a number of letters since the summit conference at Geneva last July. All the previous ones dealt with arms reduction.

On another aspect of foreign policy growing in part out of Russia's changing behavior and the effect it has had to spur neutral sentiment in some countries, he White House sought to dispel any misunderstanding over remarks Eisenhower made Wednesday at his news conference.

It issued a new statement described as a clarification, which reiterated Eisenhower's arguments in favor of increased security through collective defense. It said such collective arrangements represent "the best and most effective means of preserving world order within the framework of the United Nations."

Arguing in support of his foreign aid program, Eisenhower said, Wednesday that there are many reasons why some countries find it impractical to join military alliances. Moreover, he said, this does not always work to the disadvantage of the United States.

Some alarm was expressed in diplomatic circles that these remarks may have created an impression that the United States was setting a lower value than heretofore on the importance of its alliances and was putting a premium on neutrality in the cold war.

Garrett Church Revival to Start

The speaker is well known among Association Baptists being moderator of the Arkansas Missionary Baptist Association.

To him that was like stepping alive into heaven. The Harlem-born kid, who celebrated his first birthday in a crib in a dressing room of the old Hippodrome theater, had reached the top at the age of 30.

There were a lot of hard years of tramping along the way, but now Sammy has it made. He has sold 3½ million records. He and his daddy and "Uncle Will" Mastin

One Killed in Niagara Falls Rockfall

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) — The most destructive rockfall in the recorded history of the spectacular Niagara Gorge took one man's life late yesterday and left the huge Schoellkopf hydroelectric station in tumbledown ruins.

More than 40 other employees of the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. scrambled along the precipitous bank to safety as two of the station's three sections roared into the wild rapids behind them.

Some 300,000 kilowatts of power capacity was wiped out.

The original cost of the two completely wrecked sections was believed to have been about 35 million dollars more than 30 years ago.

Richard A. Draper, 39, of near-by Lewiston, a machinist, was swept away in the cascading remnants of powerhouse walls. His body was not immediately recovered.

Draper and the others had been working feverishly sandbagging a leak at the base of the station half a mile downstream from the American Falls, where a giant rockfall destroyed Prospect Point July 28, 1934. The seepage had been discovered only a few hours earlier.

The staccato reports of cracking walls warned the men that the end of the building was near.

"All I know is that the walls and ceiling came down and I ran like hell," said Chris Nelson, 25, one of the crew. "I didn't stop for anything. I was really scared."

Here's What Ike Said of Ailment

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said last March he no longer would be in the job if he ever felt physically unequal to it. He added he didn't want to be pinned down to that promise by a touch of the flu or some minor upset.

At his March 7 news conference Eisenhower was questioned at length about the influence of his health on his plans and about Democratic charges that he would be only a part-time President.

When one reporter asked what he would do if he learned before nominating convention time that his physical condition was below par, Eisenhower replied:

"Unless I felt absolutely up to the performance of the duties of the President, the second that I didn't, I would no longer be there in the job or I wouldn't be available for the job."

Pressed as to just what he meant, the President grinned and said:

"Well, now, don't hold me down if I get a week's case of the flu or something else."

NEW YORK (AP) — Endlessly staring faces . . . coffee that tastes like tired tea . . . thunderous rockin' rhythm ovations . . . and most of all, overwhelming curiosity about anything American.

These are diverse bits from the teeming kaleidoscope of a thousand impressions garnered on a two-month tour behind the Iron Curtain by the far-ranging "Porgy and Bess" theatrical troupe.

Director-co-producer Robert Breen says: "It is quite a shock to discover that there is a place in the world where they quite literally know nothing about America. Along with that there is a fantastic, gnawing hunger to learn about us."

Everywhere the Negro players were asked about their life in America.

"It was fantastic to watch them when we told them that we go to college like anyone else," says one.

Was any effort made to indoctrinate them? A soprano replies: "They are so interested in finding out from us that they just ask questions, let you do all the talking."

The dramatic troupe—85 players and a score of administrative workers—came home this week from a show tour that included 62 performances of the famous folk opera in Leningrad, Moscow, Stalingrad, Warsaw and Prague. Blen Davis, coproduces the show with Breen.

The initial visit of any American troupe to the Soviet Union was here last week. Eisenhower said he wouldn't know he had been sick if his doctors didn't keep reminding him of it.

In recent weeks Eisenhower has been stepping up sharply his schedule of activities, which had been closely curtailed since he came back on the job.

In the earlier months of his recuperation from the heart attack he had studiously avoided evening affairs and dropped even some of the customary official social events.

WASHINGTON, (UP) — President Eisenhower suffered a "stomach upset and headache" early today. But the White House said there is nothing wrong with his heart.

For the moment, however, it postponed his scheduled appointments for the day and his plans to leave early this afternoon for his farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

The President's indisposition was announced shortly before 8 a. m. EDT by White House press Secretary James C. Hagerly.

Hagerly emphasized that the President is in good spirits and said there is no cause for concern.

A close friend of the President who was in touch with the Eisenhower family today, said Mr. Eisenhower apparently ate something which did not agree with him. He added that "there is no cause for alarm."

Mr. Eisenhower attended the annual dinner of the White House News Photographers association last night, returning to the executive mansion somewhat before 11 p. m. EDT.

At the banquet he was in the best of spirits. He ate a hearty meal held to 1800 calories because of his Sept. 24 heart attack.

'Precautionary Measure Only', Secretary Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was stricken with abdominal pains early today, and in the afternoon was taken by ambulance from the White House to the Army's Walter Reed Hospital.

The White House said physicians had diagnosed the trouble as an ileitis, or inflammation of the lower portion of the small intestine, and that "there is no indication of any heart trouble."

Press secretary James Hagerly said a cardiogram—a tracing of the heart action—would be taken at Walter Reed.

He described the hospitalization as a "precautionary measure."

Asked whether the President's condition could be called critical, Hagerly replied: "I have not used any adjectives."

In response to questions, Hagerly told newsmen that physicians had not made any suggestion to him that Eisenhower's illness was a result of food poisoning.

Hagerly's emphasis today that "there is nothing wrong" with Eisenhower's heart now recalled that the first announcement of his illness last September in Denver referred also to a stomach upset.

Preceding the heart attack, Eisenhower complained of stomach distress after having eaten onions along with his lunch.

Eisenhower was in Fitzsimons Army Hospital at Denver for seven weeks after the heart attack.

In a speech to a Citizens for Eisenhower committee here last week, Eisenhower said he wouldn't know he had been sick if his doctors didn't keep reminding him of it.

In recent weeks Eisenhower has been stepping up sharply his schedule of activities, which had been closely curtailed since he came back on the job.

Sunday School Lesson

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The phrase, "cooperation with God," appeared in a recent appeal of the American Cancer Society. There is a religious aspect to the appeal that is so interesting and noteworthy it warrants brief mention for those who may not have seen this particular publicity release.

Much of the cancer material of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Loomis.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Compton and children of Little Rock visited friends here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lewis and Miss Nancy Lewis have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Lewis in Conway.

Mrs. John Barrow, John Harley, Chris and Robert of Helena are the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cox.

accompanying the appeal was prepared by a minister, the Rev. Edwin Stewart of Meadville, Pa. Mr. Stewart, a psychologist turned preacher, has combined his two occupations. When parents of two of his high school Bible class died of cancer, he was aroused to action by the appalling statistics on the ravages of the disease. One must be indeed shocked when he learns that unless effective preventive measures intervene, two out of every three homes in the United States will be invaded by cancer.

To me the statistics seemed incredible, but I suddenly realized that my own home has been one among the numerical "two," in which early operation fortunately was successful; also, three of my closest friends in recent years have died from the disease.

Mr. Stewart's entrance into the ministry had an interesting but tragic beginning. When he was in training as a psychologist, he gave needed money to a college friend, a divinity student, to go home for Christmas. The friend was killed in a plane crash. At the funeral service the minister conducting the service said: "One of us who had dedicated himself to God is lost. Will anyone take his place?"

It was then that Edwin Stewart made his decision, though he got his science degree before entering the divinity school.

It is the minister and scientist that he says "We have to cooperate with God, if we expect Him to answer our prayers." Most assuredly cancer cannot be conquered by prayers alone and it is this realization that gives emphasis to Mr. Stewart's words and his appeal.

One of the most hopeful aspects of the cancer problem is that while preventive measures are sought, in many instances the disease can be checked and cured in the early stages. For this reason the Cancer Society urges a medical checkup once a year.

Inevitably there must be the question, "Why should there be cancer and other scourges of mankind?"

Recently I attended a movie in which were the amazing pictures of wildlife in the Okefenokee Swamp. Two friends were with me. One, with an instinctive like of reptiles, closed her eyes. The other, sitting beside me, fascinated by the sinuous beauty of the immense and deadly serpent, said to me quietly, "Did God make these?"

It is the question which the English poet William Blake posed make these?"

"Tiger, tiger, burning bright" — long ago in his famous poem, "did He who made the lamb make thee?"

As a sort of specialist in the Bible I am wondering what answer the Bible has to give I am not quite sure, and perhaps others can guide me. I think that the Bible's answer is its insistence upon positive faith, the heavens declaring the glory of God, the sense of order and beauty in the world, the realities, that fear, disorder, danger, and tragedy cannot dispel.

Can't Seem to Stop Both Berra and Mantle

By ED WILK S
Of The Associated Press

Now that Kansas City Manager Lou Boudreau has Mickey Mantle "figured out," what's he going to do about Yogi Berra?

Boudreau did about as good a job of "stopping" Mantle as any one has this season, employing a shift that packs the defense to the right. The Mick got only four hits in 11 trips and his major league leading average dropped from .411 to .403 in the three-game series just completed by the A's at Yankee Stadium.

But what about Berra? The Yogi smacked six hits in nine trips in the three games, drove in five runs, scored six and hit three homers. The Yanks hardly knew Mantle was missing.

Berra, a badball, spray hitter hit his 16th homer and fourth in four games—to get the Yankees rolling on a 9-1 decision over the A's yesterday. He added two singles and drove in two runs—giving him six homers, 10 rbis and a .545 average in six games against the A's this year.

The victory pushed New York into a 4½-game lead as runner-up Cleveland was dumped by Baltimore 5-2. The Chicago White Sox beat Washington 7-5 and Boston trimmed Detroit 6-5 in 10 innings.

Cincinnati's rugged Redlegs boomed into the National League lead, by a half game over the St. Louis, by blasting Philadelphia 8-5 while the Chicago Cubs dropped Pittsburgh to third 5-2. Milwaukee closed Brooklyn's winning streak at four games as Bob Buhl pitched a four-hitter to win 4-1.

Hank Bauer hit his 13th homer for the Yankees, knocking in the 34th run—not bad for a guy hitting .208. The A's didn't shift against Mantle—hitting right-handed against three southpaws led by loser Alex Kellner—and he had two-for-four. Bob Turley won it for a 3-2 record.

The Redlegs moved into the NL lead for the first time in 12 years at this late stage in the season by clipping losing reliever Bob Miller for three runs in the eighth.

Smoky Burgess started the rally with his fourth homer.

The Cubs, moving out of the cellar as the Phils dropped in, shelved Elroy Face with an 11-hit attack. Walt Moryn and Eddie Miksis homered with Miksis adding a triple and two singles. Bob Rush won his fifth.

Buhl hung up his third straight decision over the Brooks while Carl Erskine, winless since his May 12 no-hitter. Lost his sixth. Three runs in the sixth, two on Buhl's double, wrapped it up.

Bill Wight, who gave up all five Cleveland hits, and George Zuverink making his 23rd relief call in 47 games, checked the Indians, who moved into Yankee Stadium for a three-game series today.

The Birds broke a 2-all tie against loser Cal McLish in the third with two on a walk, Bob Nieman's double and singles by Bob Hale and Gus Triandos.

A double by Ted Lepcio, who earlier homered, won for the Red Sox against reliever Al Aber. The Tigers, who now have lost two in a row after winning seven straight also lost shortstop Harvey Kuen, batting .364, with a strained leg ligament. Frank Sullivan won it with a six-hitter. The

Wire Helps Hold Down the Chicks

By The Associated Press
A slender guy wire stretched between two light posts almost led Chattanooga to its first series victory of the season away from home, but the Lookouts blew it in the ninth and bowed 2-1 to the Memphis Chicks.

The wire stopped a drive by Cip Dickens last night which otherwise would have left the park and produced two Memphis runs early in the game. Al Sina retired the next three Chicks and, escaping jams all the way, entered the ninth with a 1-0 lead. Had he held it, the Lookouts would have been assured of their first road series triumph, since they beat the Tribe 3-2 the night before.

Sina's wild throw in the ninth let in the tying run, and Buddy Peterson's single off reliever Dick Hyde delivered the clincher and handed Chattanooga its 18th loss on the road.

The flashing light from the tail of a firefly is a luminous love call with which it finds its mate.
